Introduction

Background

The Common Curriculum Framework for Social Studies, Kindergarten to Grade 9 (hereafter referred to as the Framework) is the result of the Western Canadian Protocol for Collaboration in Basic Education, an agreement signed December 10, 1993 by the Ministers of Education of Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, the Northwest Territories, and the Yukon Territory. On March 10, 2000, this agreement was amended to include Nunavut.

The development of the Framework began with an analysis of current social studies literature and research, including Aboriginal, anglophone, and francophone sources.¹ Based upon these literature reviews and subsequent consultations with educational stakeholders, participating jurisdictions collaborated in developing a Foundation Document for the Development of the Common Curriculum Framework for Social Studies Kindergarten to Grade 12. The Foundation Document articulates a vision for social studies education in western and northern Canada, and has guided the development of the Framework.

Purpose

The Framework is primarily intended as a guide for curriculum developers and ministries of education in western and northern Canada. It provides a common foundation for the development of programs of study and learning resources for social studies. As intended by the Western Canadian Protocol agreement, each jurisdiction will decide how and when to use the Framework to accommodate provincial or territorial needs.

Framework Development Process

The Framework has been developed through a collaborative process intended to reflect the diversity of voices in Canada. This collaboration is unprecedented in the inclusion of Aboriginal and francophone representatives as full and equal partners throughout the process.

Throughout the development of the Framework, participating jurisdictions have collaborated with teacher advisory teams, cultural representatives, and other educational partners. The Framework has been developed in English and in French. Consultations on the document have taken place in English, French, and Aboriginal languages.

Vision

The Common Curriculum Framework for Social Studies, Kindergarten to Grade 9 is intended to meet the needs and reflect the nature of 21st century learners and has at its heart the concepts of citizenship and identity in the Canadian context. It is reflective of the diverse cultural perspectives, including Aboriginal and francophone, that contribute to Canada's evolving realities. The Framework will ultimately contribute to a Canadian spirit—a spirit that will be fundamental in creating a sense of belonging for each one of our students as he or she engages in active and responsible citizenship locally, nationally, and globally.²

Definition of Social Studies

For the purposes of the Framework, the following definition of social studies has been developed:

Social studies is the study of people in relation to each other and to their world. It is an interdisciplinary subject that draws upon history, geography, economics, law, political science, and other disciplines. Social studies focuses on people's relationships with their social, physical, spiritual, cultural, economic, political, and technological environments. Social studies helps students become active and responsible citizens within their communities, locally, nationally, and globally, in a complex and changing world.³

Role of Social Studies⁴

The role of social studies is to help students develop the values and attitudes, knowledge and understanding, and skills and processes necessary to become active and responsible citizens, engaged in the practice of democratic ideals, and aware of their capacity to effect change.

Social studies supports active and responsible citizenship by enabling students to

- understand their rights and responsibilities in order to participate fully in society
- demonstrate a critical understanding of the role of social, political, economic, and legal institutions as they relate to individual and collective well-being
- understand and appreciate the unique nature of Canada, its land, history, complexities, and current issues
- understand and honour the traditions, concepts, and symbols that are the expression of Canadian identity
- thrive in their evolving cultural and Canadian identities with a legitimate sense of belonging to their communities, Canada, and the world
- appreciate and respect diverse Canadian cultural perspectives, including Aboriginal and francophone, and understand how these perspectives have shaped Canada's political and cultural realities
- value the diversity, respect the dignity, and support the equality of all human beings
- develop a sense of social compassion, fairness, and justice
- recognize, speak out, and take action against injustice as it occurs in their schools, communities, Canada, and the world
- understand Canadian and world history, so as to better comprehend the present and to influence the future wisely for the well-being of all
- critically consider and understand historic and contemporary issues, including controversial issues and values, from diverse perspectives
- develop a global consciousness with respect to the human condition and world issues
- understand how political and economic distributions of power affect individuals, communities, and nations
- understand geographic concepts and skills and that humans exist in a dynamic relationship with the natural environment
- develop a consciousness for the limits of nature and a sense of stewardship for the land, as well as an understanding of the principles of sustainability
- engage in problem-solving and conflict resolution with an awareness of the ethical consequences of decision-making
- engage in active inquiry and critical and creative thinking
- conduct research ethically using diverse methods and sources, and organize, interpret, present their findings, and defend their opinions
- use and manage information and communication technologies critically
- develop effective communication skills
- develop collaborative and cooperative skills

Framework Orientation

The following guidelines have provided the orientation for the development of the Framework:

The Learning Process

Learning is an active and purposeful process of constructing meaning. This process involves the interaction of past experience, personal intentions, and new experience.

Personal, Social, and Cultural Dimensions of Learning

Learning is an active process that varies from one individual to another. It is influenced by many factors, including motivation, learning style, emotional dispositions, culture, language, gender, and socio-economic situation. Each learner is unique and learns best when his or her personal, cultural, social, and linguistic background is acknowledged and valued.

Diverse Perspectives

Learning is more meaningful when individuals are provided with opportunities to reflect critically on their own views, and to develop their awareness of diverse perspectives. The Framework is inclusive of the multiple cultural perspectives of contemporary Canadian society.

Flexibility

The intent of the Framework is to provide for breadth and depth of learning and to include local, Canadian, and global content. The Framework provides for learning that integrates values and attitudes, knowledge and understanding, and skills and processes.

Inquiry and Interaction

The Framework is intended to promote student inquiry and interaction. It is designed to encourage critical reflection, questioning, and the consideration of diverse points of view. Through inquiry into social studies issues and interaction with others, students become creative and critical decision-makers, aware of the implications of their decisions. As they actively inquire into issues, students question, validate, expand, recreate, and express their own knowledge and understanding.

Diverse Learning and Teaching Strategies

Learning is facilitated by enriched environments that provide for a variety of settings, strategies, materials, technologies, activities, and groupings. Learning outcomes are designed to accommodate diverse ways of teaching and learning, and to provide opportunities for the integration of personal stories, narratives, and the arts. This may involve experiential learning such as on-the-land experiences, cultural and cross-cultural activities, technology-assisted projects, and home and community involvement.

Social Studies Learning

Values and Attitudes

The Framework presents three types of learning outcomes: values and attitudes, knowledge and understanding, and skills and processes. Although these learning outcomes are presented separately in this document, it is understood that they are interdependent in the learning process.

Social studies learning supports the values and encourages the development of attitudes that dispose students to participate actively and responsibly in a changing pluralistic society. Important values and attitudes in social studies learning relate to self, others, learning, community, environment, and citizenship.

Positive values and attitudes concerning self involve a sense of personal worth and efficacy. The belief that one can contribute to collective well-being and make a positive difference in society begins with self-esteem and is supported by a sense of connectedness to others. This belief reinforces the development of values such as respect, integrity, responsibility, and commitment.

Positive values and attitudes with respect to others are grounded in respect for the value and dignity of all human beings. This is reflected in a concern for quality of life and a willingness to understand and respect diversity in individuals, groups, cultures, communities, and societies. Appreciating human diversity implies a critical consideration of one's own and others' perspectives. Such a consideration involves acknowledging the limitations of personal perspectives in understanding the world, and enables students to identify and speak out against intolerance, prejudice, racism, and other forms of discrimination.

Positive values and attitudes about learning involve curiosity and interest with respect to social studies questions and a sense of wonder regarding the human and natural environments. A spirit of inquiry and the enjoyment of the pursuit of knowledge are integral to social studies learning. As students engage in the learning process, they enhance their appreciation of the significance and relevance of social studies questions and issues.

Social studies helps students become informed, active, and responsible members of communities. Positive values and attitudes regarding community involve a sense of belonging and membership. A sense of belonging enables students to make choices that are motivated by concern for collective well-being. Values such as respect, a sense of personal and collective responsibility, and an appreciation of human interdependence within local, national, and global communities are fundamental to social studies learning.

An appreciation of the dependence of human beings upon nature, and respect for the natural environment are also important values in social studies learning. An attitude of stewardship for the land implies a willingness to adapt one's lifestyle in order to contribute to the well-being of the environment. An awareness of the impact of human societies and activities on the environment enables students to make decisions that reflect concern for present and future quality of life.

Values and attitudes that support active and responsible citizenship are central to social studies learning. These include respect for democratic ideals such as justice and equality, and appreciation of the rights, privileges, and responsibilities of citizenship. Values and attitudes for citizenship also involve willingness to engage in discussion, negotiation, debate, and action regarding Canadian and global social issues.

Knowledge and Understanding

The Framework is intended to facilitate the development of breadth and depth of knowledge so that students may become informed citizens, willing and able to engage in dialogue regarding local, Canadian, and global concerns. The development of knowledge and understanding is a dynamic process. This process engages students in the construction of meaning as they inquire into concepts, ideas, opinions, facts, evidence, and information. The content for this inquiry is drawn from the various social studies disciplines, including history, geography, law, economics, political science, anthropology, and sociology. Students consider diverse perspectives and sources as they interpret and evaluate information and ideas.

The development of knowledge and understanding enables students to explore and share ideas and stories within a learning community, and provides an important foundation for citizenship and identity. It also plays a significant role in guiding students' decisions and choices, by helping them to distinguish fact from opinion, and by enabling them to comprehend change and conflict. Through the process of constructing meaning from information, students come to examine, question, and understand the world in which they live. Social studies knowledge and understanding helps students to broaden and evaluate their own worldviews, and to propose realistic and innovative approaches to social problems.

Skills and Processes

Skills and processes for social studies learning are grouped under four categories: Social Participation, Communication, Creative and Critical Thinking, and Managing Ideas and Information.

Social Participation

Social participation skills enable students to develop good relations with others, to work in cooperative ways toward common goals, and to collaborate with others for the well-being of their communities. These interpersonal skills focus on cooperation, conflict resolution, taking responsibility, accepting differences, consensus-building, collaborative decision-making, and learning to deal with dissent and disagreement.

Communication

Communication skills enable students to receive, interpret, and express information and ideas clearly and purposefully. These skills include the development of oral, visual, textual, and media literacy, and the use of information and communication technologies for the exchange of information and ideas.

Creative and Critical Thinking

Creative and critical thinking enables students to make observations and decisions and to solve problems. These skills involve making connections among concepts and applying a variety of cognitive tools. Creative thinking emphasizes divergent thinking, the generation of ideas and possibilities, and the exploration of diverse approaches to questions. Critical thinking involves the use of criteria and evidence to make reasoned judgements. These judgements include distinguishing fact from opinion, evaluating information and ideas, identifying perspectives and bias, and the consideration of the consequences of decisions and actions.

Managing Ideas and Information

Information management skills enable students to access, select, organize, and record information and ideas using diverse sources, tools, and technologies. In social studies learning, these skills include research skills that enhance historical and geographical thinking.

Social Studies Inquiry

Social studies inquiry involves the exploration of issues, questions, or problems. The inquiry process begins with the natural curiosity of students and draws upon their prior knowledge. Throughout the process, students engage in creative and critical thinking, carry out research, and design creative responses to questions. Students use a variety of strategies to plan inquiry and analyze issues, and to make decisions or devise innovative approaches to problems that may or may not have solutions.

Through the inquiry process, students strive to understand and explain the world. They pose problems or seek information about relevant issues or questions. It is important that students consider diverse perspectives as they evaluate alternatives and explore consequences. Central to this process is an awareness of the complexity and change inherent in social studies issues.

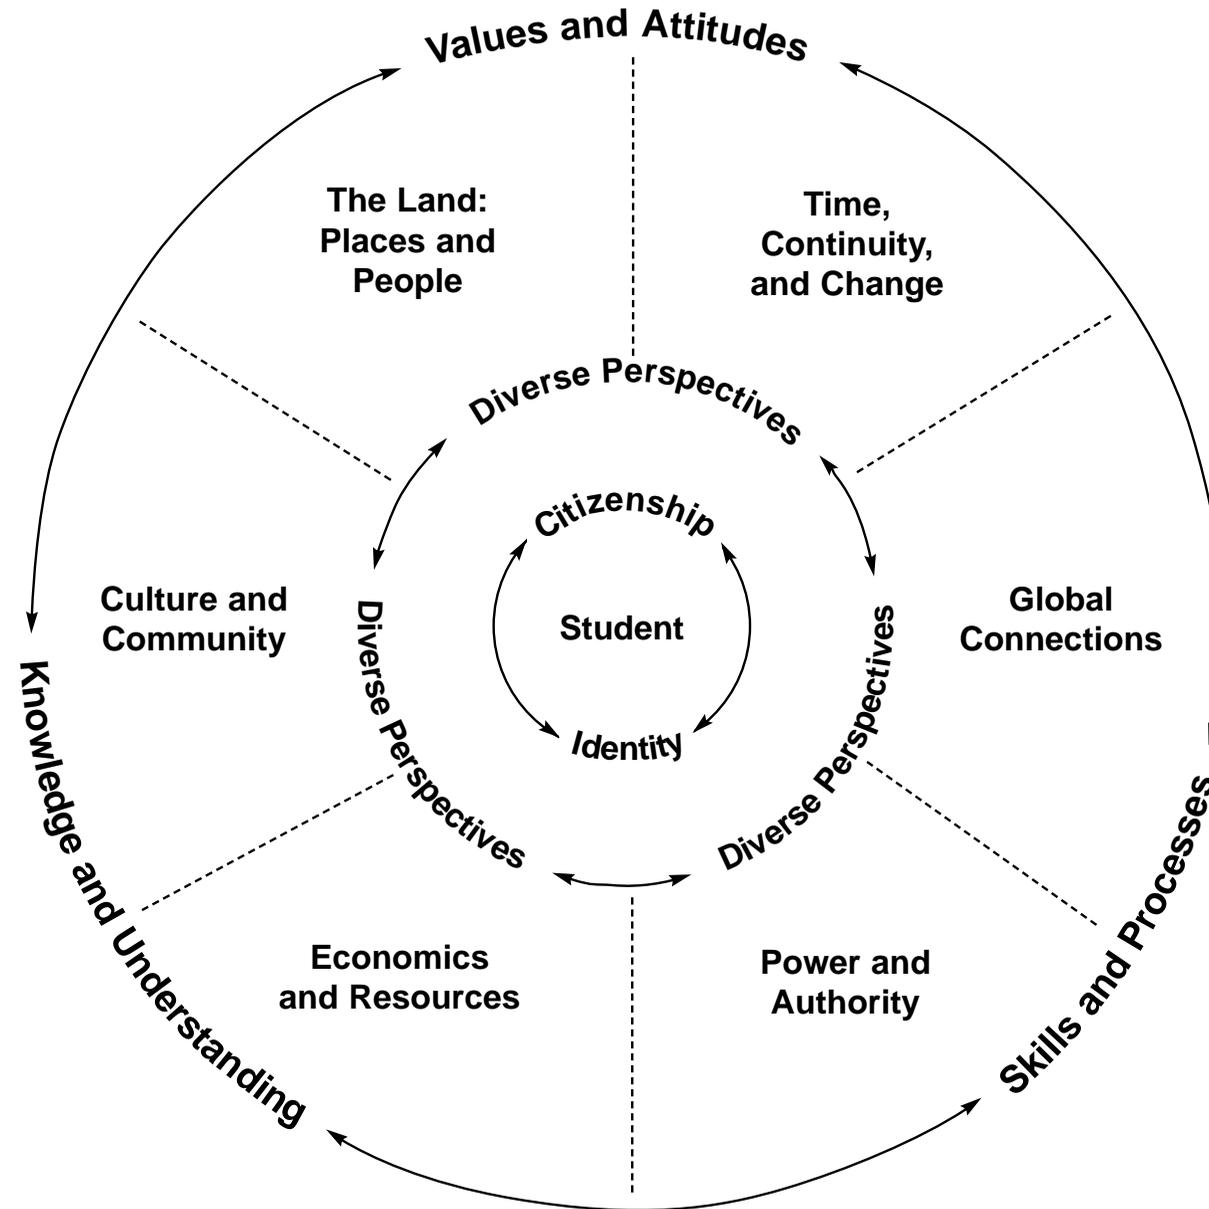

As students inquire into issues, they explore diverse choices and possibilities, and they may make decisions or take action. Where resolution is not possible, students may pose new questions or plan alternative approaches. An important part of this process is a consideration of beliefs, values, and the implications of various alternatives. This complex process includes weighing priorities, predicting consequences, negotiating compromise, and making decisions or exploring possibilities.

Making a decision or planning a course of action can be an individual or collaborative process. When the inquiry process is collaborative, social participation skills, including consensus-building and cooperation, are of critical importance.

Social Studies Inquiry

- pose new questions or explore existing issues or problems
- make connections to prior knowledge
- plan the inquiry process
- access information using a variety of sources and considering diverse perspectives
- evaluate alternative decisions and their consequences
- make a decision or plan a course of action
- take appropriate action

Conceptual Map of the Framework

Organization of the Framework

Core Concepts

Two core concepts, citizenship and identity, provide the social studies learning orientation for all grades. Learning outcomes related to citizenship and identity are presented at the beginning of each grade.

Diverse Perspectives

Diverse perspectives and the principle of diversity are reflected throughout the Framework.

General Learning Outcomes

The General Learning Outcomes are six broad statements that organize social studies learning from Kindergarten through Grade 9. They provide a structure for social studies exploration and are the basis for the Specific Learning Outcomes in each grade.

The General Learning Outcomes are referred to by the following headings:

- Culture and Community
- The Land: Places and People
- Time, Continuity, and Change
- Global Connections
- Power and Authority
- Economics and Resources

Specific Learning Outcomes

Specific Learning Outcomes are statements that describe the values and attitudes, knowledge and understanding, or skills and processes that students are expected to achieve at each grade. Learning outcomes for values and attitudes or knowledge and understanding are organized by grade under Core Concepts or General Learning Outcomes. Skills and processes learning outcomes appear at the end of each grade.

Distinctive Learning Outcomes

A number of Specific Learning Outcomes have been designated as Distinctive Learning Outcomes for Aboriginal (First Nations, Inuit, and Métis) or francophone students. Distinctive Learning Outcomes are designed to complement the Specific Learning Outcomes, and to enhance the development of language, identity, culture, and community for Aboriginal and francophone students.

Distinctive Learning Outcomes for Aboriginal students are intended for First Nations, Inuit, or Métis students in educational settings that include locally-controlled First Nations schools, Aboriginal-controlled schools in off-reserve or urban settings, or where the school or school division/district has agreed that the Distinctive Learning Outcomes be taught.

Distinctive Learning Outcomes for francophone students are intended for students enrolled in schools where francophone programs have been developed within the context of Section 23 of the Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

Grade Profiles

A Grade Profile appears at the beginning of each grade. The Grade Profile includes a description of the Content Theme and lists the citizenship and identity learning outcomes for that grade.

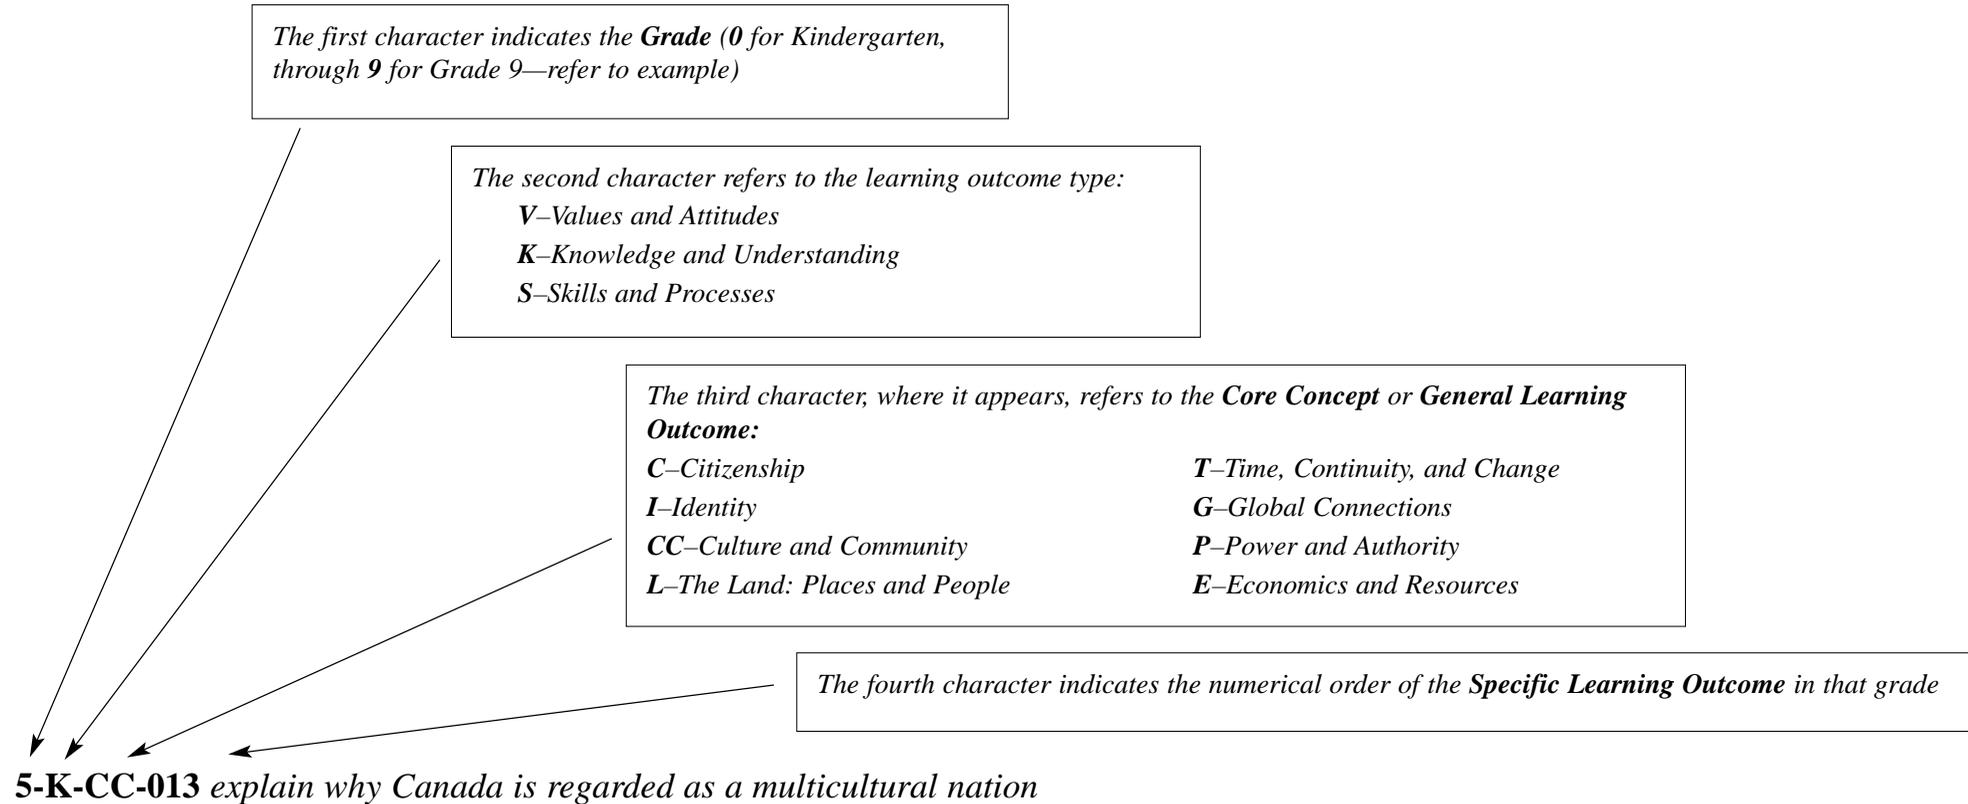

Content Themes

Each grade is identified by a Content Theme that specifies the content focus for the Specific Learning Outcomes in that grade.

Specific and Distinctive Learning Outcome Codes

Specific Learning Outcome example:

Distinctive Learning Outcome examples:

Distinctive Learning Outcomes are indicated by the letter A (Aboriginal) or the letter F (francophone) following the learning outcome number.

2-V-C-002A respect the traditional laws of their First Nation, Inuit, or Métis community

7-K-I-005F demonstrate awareness of the implications of their social, cultural and linguistic choices on their identities as francophones

Citizenship, Identity, and Diverse Perspectives

Citizenship and identity are core concepts that provide the learning orientation for social studies. These core concepts are developed through Specific Learning Outcomes at each grade.

The development of values and attitudes, knowledge and understanding, and skills and processes that support active and responsible citizenship is fundamental to social studies learning. As active and responsible citizens, students engage in discussions and take action as members of communities locally, nationally, and globally.

The core concept of citizenship provides a foundation that enables students to understand and to become committed to democratic ideals. Citizenship involves the ability and willingness to contribute to collective well-being through personal and collective decisions and actions. Students will explore historical and contemporary issues and ideas related to citizenship so as to develop an understanding of citizenship in the local, national, and global contexts. They will engage in discussion, negotiation, consensus-building, and conflict resolution. As they interact and explore diverse perspectives, students will build the competencies required for active and responsible citizenship in the Canadian context.

Identity

A strong sense of identity is a necessary foundation for interpersonal relationships, and contributes to students' abilities to participate in their communities as active and responsible citizens. Identities are shaped by many factors, including culture, language, spirituality, beliefs, socio-economic situation, gender, personal characteristics, and time and place. Identity formation is an ongoing process that involves observation, reflection, and interaction with others. Individuals affirm who they are by becoming aware of what distinguishes themselves from others as well as what connects them to others.

Social studies learning provides opportunities for students to develop self-awareness, and to enrich their personal identities and self-esteem. The core concept of identity provides a foundation for students to understand who they are as individuals and as social beings. As they reflect on and express who they are, they build upon their identities as contributing members of groups and communities.

Diverse Perspectives

Diversity is a fundamental aspect of human interaction. Living together as members of society requires understanding and appreciation of human diversity and diverse perspectives. Diverse perspectives are reflected throughout the Framework and enable students to develop an awareness of differing interpretations and worldviews. As they critically consider contemporary and historical ideas, events, and issues from diverse perspectives, students will gain a richer understanding of the complexity of cultures, communities, and societies. This understanding will allow them to interact with others with sensitivity and open-mindedness, and to respect their own and others' ways of seeing the world. As students consider diverse perspectives in their choices, decisions, and actions, they will be better able to live with others in a pluralistic society.

General Learning Outcomes Kindergarten to Grade 9

Culture and Community

Students will explore the influences of culture and community on individuals and societies.

Culture and community play an important role in the development of citizenship and identity. Many factors contribute to a sense of belonging to a culture or community, including shared values, beliefs, traditions, and language. Students will explore the concepts, symbols, and expressions of their own and others' cultural, linguistic, and social communities. They will enhance their understanding of diverse perspectives through an exploration of the ways in which people live together in cultures, groups, communities, and societies. They will explore the connections between culture, community, citizenship, and identity, and will reflect upon their roles as members of groups and communities. Learning outcomes will include concepts such as human interaction, interdependence, and cultural diversity.

The Land: Places and People

Students will explore the dynamic relationships of people with the land, places, and environments.

People exist in dynamic relationships with the land. An exploration of people's relationships with places and environments enables students to understand human dependence and human impact upon the natural environment. Students will explore diverse ways in which spatial and physical characteristics of the environment affect human life, cultures, and societies. They will consider how connections to the land influence their identities and define their roles and responsibilities as citizens, locally, nationally, and globally. Learning outcomes will focus on geographic understanding and skills, and will include concepts such as the relationship between people and the land, sustainability, and stewardship.

Time, Continuity, and Change

Students will explore how people, relationships, events, and ideas of the past shape the present and influence the future.

The past shapes who we are. An exploration of history enables students to appreciate the past, to understand the present, and to live with regard for the future. An important aspect of this process is the investigation and interpretation of Canadian and world history. Students will develop historical consciousness through a consideration of people, relationships, events, ideas, stories, and historical interpretations. They will reflect upon diverse perspectives, parallel accounts, oral and social histories, and personal narratives through historical inquiry. Through this inquiry students will develop historical understanding, which provides a foundation for citizenship and identity. Learning outcomes will focus on historical thinking, and will include concepts such as progress, decline, continuity, causality, and change.

Students will explore the global interdependence of people, communities, societies, nations, and environments.

People, communities, societies, nations, and environments are interdependent. An exploration of this interdependence will enhance students' global consciousness and encourage them to develop empathy with respect to the human condition. Students will critically consider diverse perspectives and the connections that link local, national, and global issues. This exploration of global connections will enable students to enrich their identities and to engage in active and responsible citizenship. Learning outcomes will focus on human rights and responsibilities, diversity and commonality, quality of life and equity, globalization, international cooperation and conflict, and global environmental concerns.

Power and Authority

Students will explore the processes and structures of power and authority, and their implications for individuals, relationships, communities, and nations.

Power and authority affect individuals, relationships, communities, and nations. As students explore the concepts of power and authority, they will examine the distribution, exercise, and implications of power and authority in formal and informal settings. They will critically consider diverse forms of decision-making, leadership, and governance, and will inquire into issues of fairness and equity. This exploration will help students develop a sense of personal efficacy as active and responsible citizens. Learning outcomes will include concepts such as political structures and decision-making processes, government, justice, rules, laws, and conflict.

Economics and Resources

Students will explore the use and distribution of resources and wealth in relation to individuals, communities, nations, and the natural environment.

The use, distribution, and management of resources and wealth have an impact on human societies and quality of life around the world. Students will explore the effects of economic interdependence on individuals, communities, nations, and the natural environment. They will examine economic factors that shape interactions between people and the land, and will explore diverse perspectives regarding human needs, wants, and quality of life. Students will critically consider the social and environmental implications of resource use and technological change locally, nationally, and globally. Learning outcomes will include concepts such as trade, economic disparities, globalization, and various ways in which economies are organized.

Content Themes Kindergarten to Grade 9

Kindergarten Being Together

Kindergarten students will explore who they are in relation to others in their world. They will be given opportunities to become aware of themselves as unique individuals and to express who they are by sharing their stories. Students will discover how they are connected to other people and will be encouraged to express interest and sensitivity in their interactions with others. Through inquiry into their social and physical environments, they will begin to see themselves as part of a larger world.

Grade 1 Connecting and Belonging

Grade 1 students will explore their connections in families, schools, groups, and communities. They will enhance their understanding of the diverse needs and wants of others, and will consider the connections that bring people together in groups. They will discover how they can contribute as individuals to the well-being of the groups to which they belong. Students will be encouraged to care for the natural environment and to show concern for other people in their relationships, groups, and communities.

Grade 2 Communities in Canada

Grade 2 students will explore communities in Canada, beginning with their own community and moving outward to other communities. They will inquire into various aspects of Canadian communities, and will consider how these communities have changed over time. Students will enhance their awareness of human interdependence, and will explore how people depend upon and affect the natural environment. Through this exploration, they will develop understanding of the characteristics of diverse Canadian communities. Students will discover how Canadians live in urban and rural communities from the Atlantic or Pacific coast, Québec, the North, and the Prairies. One of these selections will be a First Nation, Inuit, or Métis community.

Grade 3 Connecting with the World

Grade 3 students will explore life in communities around the world. They will consider geographic, social, and cultural characteristics of a variety of contemporary communities. Students will enrich their awareness and appreciation of how people live in other places, and will develop an understanding of culture and cultural diversity. Communities will be selected from Europe, Asia, South America, and Australia.

Grade 4 Provinces and Territories: Our Places, Stories, and Traditions

Grade 4 students will explore the places, stories, and traditions of the people of their province or territory. Students will situate their province or territory in the context of Canada and the world. They will inquire into the historical, social, and cultural characteristics of their province or territory, and will develop understanding of the diversity and shared experiences of people within their province or territory. They will also consider the places, stories, and traditions of one of their northern territorial neighbours, with a focus on how life in Canada's North has changed over time. Through this inquiry, students will be encouraged to develop a sense of belonging and citizenship within their province or territory and within Canada.

Grade 5 Canada: The Peoples and Stories of this Land

Grade 5 students will focus on the stories of the peoples of Canada and how they came to share this land over time. They will explore the ways of life and stories of the original inhabitants of this land, as well as the experiences of French and British settlers and diverse cultural groups as they developed roots in this country. They will examine the effects of intercultural contact, European exploration, and diverse approaches to the use and settlement of the land prior to Confederation. Throughout this inquiry, they will consider diverse perspectives and discover connections between history, identity, and citizenship. As they reflect upon the peoples and stories of this land, students will develop historical consciousness and an awareness of diversity and change in Canadian history.

Grade 6 People and Places in the World

Grade 6 students will explore life in various parts of the world with a focus on questions of interest to youth. Students will apply geographic concepts and skills as they discover ways of life in diverse human and physical environments. They will explore issues related to quality of life, the environment, technology, urbanization, and human rights. Through this exploration, they will increase their awareness of global interdependence and their understanding of the impact of people's choices and decisions on the world around them. As they inquire into the ways of life and concerns of people in other parts of the world, they will be encouraged to reflect upon their own values and attitudes, and to cultivate empathy and respect for others. This inquiry will draw upon examples of densely and sparsely populated regions selected from within North America, Central America, South Asia, the Middle East, and Africa.

Grade 7 Canada, a Country of the North

Grade 7 students will explore Canada's northern character. They will consider contemporary and historical issues related to land and resource use, survival, and adaptation to the environment. This consideration will include an exploration of diverse cultural and artistic expressions of Canada's northernness. Students will examine intercultural contact, the movement of indigenous peoples and immigrants, and the settlement of western and northern Canada. They will explore the settlement of diverse groups and will consider how people changed and were changed by their environments over time. Students will also discover Canada's connections to other circumpolar regions, including Alaska, Russia, Finland, Sweden, Norway, Iceland, Denmark, and Greenland. Through this inquiry into Canada's historical influences and northern connections, students will develop an understanding of the complex nature of Canada's evolving identity.

Grade 8 Exploring Worldviews of the Past

Grade 8 students will explore worldviews of past societies and connections between the past and the present. Students will consider how worldviews are shaped and how they are expressed by people living in particular times and places. They will examine issues related to contact between societies with differing worldviews. Students will explore diverse sources of historical information, including oral histories, images, literature, and the arts. Through this inquiry into past societies, students will reflect upon their own worldviews, assess the influences of the past on the present, and further develop their historical consciousness. Students will explore a historical indigenous society of North America, as well as Mesopotamia or Ancient Egypt; Ancient Greece or Rome; Aztec, Incan, or Mayan civilizations; Medieval Europe or Renaissance Europe; Ancient China or Japan.

Grade 9 Canada: Opportunities and Challenges

Grade 9 students will explore Canada's contemporary opportunities and challenges. They will examine Canadian demographics and political organization. They will consider diverse perspectives related to Canadian political issues, Aboriginal self-government, francophone presence and influence, multiculturalism, media and popular culture, and the impact of the United States on Canadian culture. They will explore cultural interaction in Canadian society and will engage in the debate surrounding culture and identity in Canada. Through this inquiry, students will develop understanding of the complexities of citizenship and identity in the Canadian context and will enhance their ability to become informed, active, and responsible citizens.

Grade 6

People and Places in the World

Specific Learning Outcomes

Grade 6 Profile

Grade 6 students will explore life in various parts of the world with a focus on questions of interest to youth. Students will apply geographic concepts and skills as they discover ways of life in diverse human and physical environments. They will explore issues related to quality of life, the environment, technology, urbanization, and human rights. Through this exploration, they will increase their awareness of global interdependence and their understanding of the impact of people’s choices and decisions on the world around them. As they inquire into the ways of life and concerns of people in other parts of the world, they will be encouraged to reflect upon their own values and attitudes, and to cultivate empathy and respect for others. This inquiry will draw upon examples of densely and sparsely populated regions selected from within North America, Central America, South Asia, the Middle East, and Africa.

Grade 7

Canada, a Country of the North

Specific Learning Outcomes

Grade 7 Profile

Grade 7 students will explore Canada’s northern character. They will consider contemporary and historical issues related to land and resource use, survival, and adaptation to the environment. This consideration will include an exploration of diverse cultural and artistic expressions of Canada’s northernness. Students will examine intercultural contact, the movement of indigenous peoples and immigrants, and the settlement of western and northern Canada. They will explore the settlement of diverse groups and will consider how people changed and were changed by their environments over time. Students will also discover Canada’s connections to other circumpolar regions, including Alaska, Russia, Finland, Sweden, Norway, Iceland, Denmark, and Greenland. Through this inquiry into Canada’s historical influences and northern connections, students will develop an understanding of the complex nature of Canada’s evolving identity.

Glossary

Glossary

The glossary is intended to clarify the meaning of words and expressions as they are used in this document.

Aboriginal: First Nations, Inuit, and Métis peoples.

consensus: the achievement of agreement through a process of communication in which all parties affected by a decision have equal power and equal voice. Consensus is achieved when: all parties to a decision have been thoroughly consulted; all parties have been given all available information on the matter; adequate time for reflection has been provided; debate has been conducted in a manner respectful to all parties; there is common agreement on a plan of action. Consensus may, under some circumstances, provide for the recording of a dissenting opinion.

community: refers to a group of people with commonalities that may include culture, language, values and beliefs, interests, practices and ways of life, history, or shared space.

In some instances, the term community refers to a geographically defined space (e.g., a prairie community, the town of Willow Bunch in Saskatchewan).

culture: the beliefs, values, socially transmitted behaviours and traditions, language, arts, and other human endeavours considered together as being characteristic of a particular community, period, or people.

democratic ideals: ideals that pertain to rule by the people, including: citizen voice and participation in government; the principle of equality of rights, opportunity, and treatment of citizens; equity and justice; freedom of expression, opinion, belief, and association; the principle of the rule of law; balance between individual and collective responsibilities and rights.

globalization: the integration and interdependence of economies and cultures around the world through trade and financial flows across national boundaries, and through the movement and exchange of people, knowledge, culture, and technologies.

historical consciousness: how people today think about and understand the past, as well as how they use these understandings to inform their actions in the present and their plans for the future. Historical consciousness may be individual or collective, and may or may not reflect accurate factual knowledge or defensible historical interpretations.

interdisciplinary: An interdisciplinary approach connects interdependent knowledge, skills, and values from more than one subject area to examine a central theme, issue, problem, topic, or experience; an interdisciplinary approach stresses connections between concepts and across disciplines.

inuksuit: plural for inuksuk. Inuksuit may be translated as “replicas of people.” Inuksuit are structures built from various types of rocks and are intended for specific purposes, such as indicating navigation routes, good hunting areas, migration routes, or sacred places. Inuksuit have different shapes and names depending upon their purposes.

Inuksuk (“replica of a person”) is often spelled incorrectly as “inukshuk.” Inuktitut, the language of the Inuit, is phonetic and does not have a “sh” combination sound.

land: the totality of the natural environment, including earth, water, and sky, which both gives and sustains life.

oral tradition: Oral tradition includes narratives, accounts, songs and dances, stories and legends, knowledge, and laws that are passed from one generation to another.

place: the tangible and intangible characteristics of a location or region that distinguish it from any other location and make it unique.

region: a geographic area with homogeneous physical, human, or cultural characteristics; geographers identify regions in order to divide the world into manageable units of study.

spiritual, spirituality: Spiritual, when used in the general sense, refers to beliefs, values, practices, or questions concerning the fundamental meaning and purpose of human life beyond its physical manifestations.

From an Aboriginal perspective, spirituality refers to a way of seeing the world as created by a principle that is ever present and always active. This perspective involves a total way of life and affirms balance and harmony with the land. The practices associated with this way of life create and maintain a sense of Aboriginal identity and membership within one's family, community, and nation/people. These practices honour the traditions, customs, and symbols that Aboriginal people have inherited from their ancestors.

stewardship: refers to the shared responsibility of human beings as caretakers of the natural environment; stewardship involves the equitable management of the environment, the economy, and society for the benefit of present and future generations.

story: An oral or written narrative, or a drama or dance that relates the experiences of an individual or group. The narrative relates a truth from a personal perspective, which may or may not be historically verifiable. The inclusion of story in social studies leads to an enriched and multi-layered understanding of people, relationships, events, and places. Stories, which include legends and myths, enhance historical consciousness and contribute to the collective memories of groups and communities.

From an Aboriginal perspective, there is an expectation that stories will be shared and passed on to the next generation. Stories tell of truth, values, beliefs, origins, family connections, how to live, life in the past, and connections with the land and animals, and are all part of building community.

sustainability: a recognition of the interdependence of social health and well-being, the environment, and economic development, and a consciousness of the impact of this relationship on quality of life today and for future generations.

technology: an encompassing term that includes tools, instruments, machines, systems, processes, and environments developed by humans to live in or manage the physical environment.

worldview: the overall perspective from which one sees, interprets, and makes sense of the world; a comprehensive collection of beliefs and values about life and the universe held by an individual or group.
